“When the Sun is Two Hands High”

Drawings from my Manitoba Mennonite Village Childhood

Marta Goertzen Armin (1923-2009)

Adele Armin will be presenting and discussing a selection of drawings created by her mother that delightfully illustrate many aspects of early rural Mennonite life.
